Description	The Psychology program at Purchase College, SUNY, invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Clinical Psychology, Counseling Psychology, Clinical Neuropsychology or related areas beginning Fall 2023. Our department values inclusive research and teaching, as demonstrated through our commitment to student-faculty mentorship in our research-focused curriculum.

Purchase College is a primarily undergraduate, Hispanic-serving institution located 25 miles north of New York City. Purchase is ranked by US News in the Top 10 public US liberal arts colleges and is among the Best 388 Colleges by Princeton Review.

We welcome candidates with a specialty in clinical or counseling psychology or clinical or cognitive assessment who can teach lower-level and upper-level undergraduate courses in counseling, therapy, disorders, assessment, treatment, or other related topics in the candidate's area of expertise. The candidate should also be able to join the teaching rotation for some required courses (e.g., Introduction to Psychology, Research Methods, and Statistics). The faculty teaching load is typically 6 courses per year (one course of which is the supervision of six senior project students each year).

The successful candidate will be prepared to maintain an active research lab while providing research mentorship to undergraduate students from various backgrounds. All undergraduate students at Purchase complete year-long senior projects, many involving empirical research (subject to IRB approval) under the supervision of a faculty sponsor. Thus, faculty should have a research program in which they can mentor undergraduates through collecting and/or analyzing data within the timeframe of their senior project.

Qualifications

A doctoral degree in Psychology or a related field by August 2023 is required. Although the candidate must be qualified to teach undergraduate courses in clinical or counseling psychology and to conduct research, they do not need to be licensed to practice and should not plan to have a private practice. The department is seeking applications from candidates who can demonstrate experience with diverse, multicultural populations through their own background, research training, or past teaching experiences, and should highlight this in their cover letter and other relevant materials.

A year-long senior research project is a college-wide requirement in the Purchase curriculum. Therefore, it is critically important that the candidate have the potential for, or presence of, an active publishing record, and a passion for mentoring and advising undergraduate students from cross-sectional communities through the research process.

Candidates are required to complete an on-line application via the College's job vacancy website. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, statements of Research Interests and Teaching Philosophy (merged together and submitted as "other document 1"), as well as 2 representative publications (submitted as "other documents" 2 and 3). In addition, applicants are required to provide a list of contact information for three (3) references who can be contacted for a recommendation. Letters of reference will be requested for candidates identified to be interviewed. Letters of reference should NOT be sent or uploaded with your application materials. Phone calls, hard copy, or e-mail submissions of application materials will NOT be accepted.
